AND YET, WHO CAME

He who fed the five thousand
He who healed the unclean
He who ordered the mute to speak and the blind to see
Jesus, Lord and Messiah
On the night when betrayed
Spoke the words that give hope and light through each darkened age

Take this and eat
Share of this bread
This is my body broken for you
Take this and drink
Share of this wine
This is my lifeblood I shed for you

He who quietened the tempest
He who walked on the waves
He who cast out the demons and who the dead did raise
Saviour and Interceder
Now in Heaven enthroned
Son of Man and the Way, the Truth and the Life alone

And yet, who came
Born to the Earth
Sent by the Father given for sin
Who calls our names
Though we were lost
Shepherds his people safely to Him

The Lamb of God
Let us behold
Risen in glory then did ascend
Who bids us go
Spread the good news
For He is with us until the end
